Good Medicine

"Architecture is like medicine; it helps you enjoy life more," laughs Heinz Albers, owner of H. Albers Builders Ltd. And there's plenty of that good stuff to go around when you step inside one of his custom built homes. His attention to detail and dedication to quality workmanship has made him the builder of choice for many discerning homeowners.

Albers latest showhome at 114 Silver Sage Crescent in Sage Creek features those architectural details he's been known for - whether it's a large wave-like ceiling embellishment over a table, or something as subtle as rounded wood brackets, there's always something to catch the eye.

One of the most visually stunning elements of this 1,550-square-foot bungalow is the kitchen. The modern mixture of white high-gloss cabinets, provided by Kitchen Craft, and dark walnut cabinets and accents bring a unique blend of dark and light.

Walnut, a favourite hardwood of Albers and his quality-conscious customers, is carried throughout the rest of the house, from a custom-designed entertainment centre in the great room to the large mudroom's seating bench, which is coupled with ample hooks and storage to keep the space pristine.

Even more impact can be felt in the master bedroom's ensuite, featuring an oversized shower with a rain showerhead, six-foot soaker tub, and a surround of mirrors.

Everything homeowners can see - such as the high-grade appliances and engineered hardwood
